

Working It Out

Thursday 27th November 2025

Tom Brogan - Tom is your host for this evening, mainly because he didn't get around to asking someone more competent. Please buy his new book, DalGLISH: The Fifty Matches That Made the Player. Someone you know will love it as a Christmas present.

Luiz Utiyen - My name is Louis Utiyen (aka Kinz Luiz), and I'm a black queer comedian tryna figure out how to never work a job again but still survive lol. Currently, I have a comedy show in March at The Stand with my best friend Hitesh. It's gonna be a mix of live comedy and also screening some funny short films. You don't want to miss this night. It's on Sunday 8th March @ 7pm. IG :@ kinzluiz

Aly Francis - Aly Francis is a character comic and clown based in Edinburgh. She is working on her first solo character show, 'Aly Francis Presents the Weather' at the Glasgow International Comedy Festival, and will be performing on Wednesday 25th March 7.45pm at The Admiral Woods. Follow her at @aly_francis_comedy on Instagram for further details and ticket links. This evening she is showing an extract from her one-woman play, Twixt. Eilidh Campbell is twenty-five, lives with her mum and dad, and is bored out of her f*cking mind. On her friend's advice, Eilidh decides to ride out the wave of her quarter-life crisis by throwing herself headfirst into a slew of new hobbies, hoping her mental health can survive the plunge.

Twixt was first developed as part of Aila's master's course at the Royal Birmingham Conservatoire, before debuting at Birmingham Fest in 2023, followed by the Dundee Fringe and a one-off performance at The Old Hairdresser's in 2024. Aila is still developing the piece and is excited to share an extract with you all this evening!

Rio McWilliams - Currently, my set is about me having autism/Adhd. In my set, I talk about the stereotypes that come with these conditions. Instagram: @riomcwilliams_comedy

Erin Goodall - Erin Goodall's music blends the raw soul of classic voices like Nina Simone and Amy Winehouse with the modern emotional depth of artists like Banks and Gigi Perez. Rooted in acoustic performance, her sound is stripped back yet powerful, carrying storytelling at its core. Loud, proud, and unapologetically emotional, Erin's songs move between intimacy and intensity, drawing listeners into honest reflections of love, struggle, and resilience. Each performance feels like a conversation from the soul — raw, vulnerable, and unforgettable.

Adam McNelis - Adam is reading from his novel in progress.

Olivia Hall - Olivia is a queer comedian from Glasgow.

Jeremy Pestle - Occasional photographer, filmmaker & writer (all whilst juggling an intense day job), on a mission to try as many new things creatively as possible - starting off (maybe madly) with standup because a few friends thought he is mildly funny(?).

Currently working on: new scripts for a spoof news web series (if anyone wants to get involved somehow, pls hit me up) Handles: @jenezmy almost everywhere

Bitten by Alasdair Shaw

Cast: Jamie Cowan and Stuart Curlett. Directed by Stuart Curlett

In a stark interrogation room, Daniel finds himself trapped after a violent street attack. His mysterious interrogator, Osbourne, has only one obsessive question: was he bitten? As the questioning intensifies from unsettling to brutal, Daniel struggles to remember the details of his assault. But why does it matter if teeth were involved? And who exactly is holding him?

Rosa Cameron - I'm Rosa, and I'm a writer, singer and stand-up comedian from Glasgow. In today's performance, I'll be doing stand-up. My set is based around the awkward and macabre happenings of my life, as well as some observations I've made. When I'm not doing stand-up or working on my sets, I write a blog.
